

Last Day on Earth: Survival

About Last Day on Earth: Survival

Last Day on Earth: Survival is about surviving as long as possible. Players must not only defend themselves against other players, but also against zombies.

Last Day on Earth is a multiplayer strategy game in which your only goal is to survive as long as possible. However, since a deadly plague has wiped out 80% of the world's population and turned it into zombies, you have to be careful not only of other players, but of zombies as well. To hunt down zombies and other enemies as effectively as possible, you must create your own weapons and build a safe hiding place. In addition, collecting resources in abandoned buildings and warehouses is crucial. If you want to kill zombies more effectively and faster, you can team up with other players in a clan.

Last Day on Earth: Survival - Features:

- Survive the zombie apocalypse: In Last Day on Earth: Survival, Earth has become a dangerous place full of zombies. You are one of the few survivors who have not yet been transformed by the deadly plague - and of course you want it to stay that way. During the game you have only one goal: to survive as long as possible. For this you have to kill not only the zombies, but also other players. In Last Day on Earth: Survival, every player is on his own.
- Build your own weapons: In order to kill zombies and other players particularly effectively, you must of course have strong weapons. A special feature in Last Day on Earth: Survival, however, is that you have to produce the weapons in part yourself. For this, you can use materials that you collected during your raids.
- Find resources and weapons: Last Day on Earth: Survival's big open game world has plenty to discover that could secure your survival. For example, when you search abandoned warehouses or buildings, you often come across weapons or other resources that you can process later.
- Build a clan: Even though every player is on his own in Last Day on Earth: Survival, you have a common goal: to kill zombies. To kill zombies faster and more effectively, you can team up with other players in clans.
- Exchange information: For the successful destruction of zombies with your clan, sharing information or planning a strategy is crucial. For this you can simply use the integrated chat. Think about a strategy on how best to push back the zombies and claim new areas for you.